Storm City Games LLC is an independent game development studio based in the Seattle area, United States. Founded in 2004, Storm City Games LLC specializes in developing arcade-style games with retro influences set to various historical eras. Previous titles produced include Air Strike 1944 and Air Attack 3D. The company also publishes two additional products under the publisher's Storm City Games LLC name, Warbirds!, a turn-based strategic war game under license from Bandai Namco Entertainment America Inc. and the new game, WARBOUND, which is slated for release in summer 2018. The original Air Strike 1944 was developed by Storm City Games LLC on behalf of the publisher Storm City Games LLC, who released it for PC on 10 February 2012. It was created as a free-to-play game but on 9 February 2015 the company announced that after more than 1 million downloads they have decided to take down the multiplayer aspect of the game due to 'limited infrastructure' which has resulted in issues with stability and having to switch servers. The developers stated that they were looking into potentially restoring some of their multiplayer functionality in future updates. Though the company did state that the game was not dead and that multiplayer will be back at some point. All games developed by Storm City Games LLC are developed in C++ with an emphasis on accessibility. The company also has partnerships with Bandai Namco Entertainment America Inc, who handles the license to publish their products overseas under the Warbirds! brand, and Warbirds!, Inc., who handles all other licensing matters.
